Mission and Vision

The academy's mission is to deliver high-quality training that promotes public safety, community engagement, and professional excellence. Its vision is to be recognized as a leader in public safety education by fostering a culture of integrity, respect, and continuous improvement.

Historical Background

Since its inception, the CUNY Public Safety Training Academy has evolved to address emerging public safety challenges and technological advancements. It has expanded its curriculum and facilities to accommodate a wider range of training needs, maintaining a strong commitment to public service and community safety.

Training Programs Offered

The CUNY Public Safety Training Academy offers a variety of comprehensive training programs tailored to different facets of public safety. These programs combine classroom instruction, physical training, and practical exercises to prepare students for real-world scenarios.

Law Enforcement Training

This program prepares candidates for careers in police departments and other law enforcement agencies. It covers criminal law, investigation techniques, firearms proficiency, defensive tactics, and community policing strategies.

Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Training

The EMS program trains students to become certified emergency medical technicians (EMTs) and paramedics. The curriculum includes patient assessment, trauma care, medical emergencies, and ambulance operations, emphasizing rapid and effective response.

Fire Safety and Prevention

The fire safety program educates students on fire behavior, suppression methods, rescue operations, and fire prevention strategies. It prepares participants for roles in firefighting and fire safety inspection.

Security and Protective Services

This training focuses on security management, risk assessment, and protection techniques for various environments, including corporate, educational, and public venues.

Continuing Education and Specialized Workshops

The academy also offers continuing education courses and specialized workshops for current public safety personnel seeking to update or enhance their skills in areas such as cyber security, crisis negotiation, and disaster management.

Admission and Eligibility Requirements

Admission to the CUNY Public Safety Training Academy is competitive and based on a set of eligibility criteria designed to ensure candidates are prepared for the demands of public safety professions.

Basic Eligibility Criteria

Applicants must meet certain age, education, and physical fitness standards. Typically, candidates are required to have a high school diploma or equivalent and pass background checks and medical examinations.

Application Process

The application process includes submitting academic transcripts, completing entrance examinations, and participating in interviews. Some programs may require additional assessments such as physical agility tests and psychological evaluations.

Prerequisite Training or Certifications

Certain programs may require prior certifications or experience. For example, advanced EMS courses may require initial EMT certification, while law enforcement training may require prior security experience.

Career Opportunities and Certifications

Graduates of the CUNY Public Safety Training Academy gain access to a broad spectrum of career paths within public safety sectors. The academy's certifications are widely recognized and respected by employers.

Certification Credentials

Students receive certifications that qualify them for state and federal licensing. These include peace officer certifications, EMT and paramedic licenses, fire safety certifications, and security officer licenses.

Employment Opportunities

Graduates can pursue careers as police officers, firefighters, emergency medical technicians, security officers, and other public safety roles. The academy's strong connections with local agencies often facilitate job placement and internships.

cuny public safety training academy: A New Understanding of Terrorism M.R. Haberfeld, Agostino Hassell, 2009-07-09 Terrorism is a complex phenomenon that cannot be understood through reading of a number of unrelated academic articles or a dry overview of the history of terrorism or the investigative techniques. For A New Understanding of Terrorism, the Editors have chosen a different paradigm. They have selected numerous case studies from actual events that illustrate various typologies of terrorist actions, be it from a separatist, nationalist, lone-wolf individual terrorist, religious fanatics or environmentalist orientation, and they present these cases within the context of following the trajectories of the terrorist activity, the terrorist act itself and, the response to the event from the relevant authorities. Some chapters concentrate on terrorist attacks that actually took place, others speculate about the possibilities of an attack occurring sometime in the future, such as the chapters on the Olympic Games, Aviation or Rail Security. When possibilities rather than a specific event are discussed, the authors of these chapters draw the attention of the reader towards the same direction—the reasoning, the actual event and the response that followed. The thorough analysis of the presented case studies and the applied counter-measures will, hopefully, if not curtail then possibly at least mitigate the operational and ideological strength of terrorist groups or individual actors. A New Understanding of Terrorism will enable the reader to make the connection between the emotional charge inherent in any terrorist activity, the cold-blooded tactics that lead to the terrorist event itself and the pragmatic and very straightforward, but at the same time very simplistically designed, strategic response that has to come from a synergy between academics, military and law enforcement brainstorming design in order to be more effective in the future. ABOUT THE EDITORS: M.R. (Maki) Haberfeld is a Professor of Police Science at John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York City. She has worked for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, in the New York Field Office, as a special consultant. Prior to that she has served in a counter-terrorist unit in the Israeli Defense Forces and she left the army at the rank of Sergeant. She was also a lieutenant in the Israel National Police. For the past eight years, Dr. Haberfeld has been involved in developing, coordinating and teaching in a special training program for the New York City Police Department, where she teaches courses in police ethics, leadership and counter-terrorism. She was also an Academic Coordinator of the Law Enforcement Executive Police Institute for the State of New York, where she taught modules on counter-terrorism response. Agostino von Hassell is the president of The Repton Group LLC, a New York City based consulting group that deals mostly with national security issues. He has written numerous political and historical articles and is the author of two major military histories, Warriors: The United States Marine Corps and Strike Force: Marine Corps Special Operations. In 2003, he published a pictorial portrait of the United States—In Honor of America. He has taught as an adjunct professor in the graduate program of John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York, teaching members of the New York City Police Department in subjects such as counter-terrorism and leadership. He is a life member of the United States Marine Corps Combat Correspondents, the National Defense Industry Association, the Association of Former Intelligence Officers and the Authors' Guild.

cuny public safety training academy: Encyclopedia of Law Enforcement Larry E Sullivan, Marie Simonetti Rosen, Dorothy M Schulz, M. R. Haberfeld, 2004-12-15 Click 'Additional Materials' for downloadable samples Although there is a plethora of studies on crime and punishment, law enforcement is a relatively new field of serious research. When courts, sentencing, prisons, jails, and other areas of the criminal justice system are studied, often the first point of entry into the system is through police and law enforcement agencies. Unfortunately, understanding of the important issues in law enforcement has little general literature to draw on. Currently available reference works on policing are narrowly focused and sorely out-of-date. To this end, a distinguished roster of authors, representing many years of knowledge and practice in the field, draw on the latest research and methods to delineate, describe, and analyze all areas of law enforcement. This three-volume Encyclopedia of Law Enforcement provides a comprehensive, critical, and descriptive examination of all facets of law enforcement on the state and local, federal and national, and international stages. This work is a unique reference source that provides readers with informed discussions on the practice and theory of policing in an historical and contemporary framework. The volumes treat subjects that are particular to the area of state and local, federal and national, and international policing. Many of the themes and issues of policing cut across disciplinary borders, however, and several entries provide comparative information that places the subject in context. Key Features • Three volumes cover state and local, federal, and international law enforcement • More than 250 contributors composed over 400 essays on all facets of law enforcement • An editorial board made up of the leading scholars, researchers, and practitioners in the field of law enforcement • Descriptions of United States Federal Agency law enforcement components • Comprehensive and inclusive coverage, exploring concepts and social and legal patterns within the larger topical concern • Global, multidisciplinary analysis Key Themes • Agencies, Associations, and Organizations • Civilian/Private Involvement • Communications • Crime Statistics • Culture/Media • Drug Enforcement • Federal Agencies/Organizations • International • Investigation, Techniques • Types of Investigation • Investigative Commissions • Law and Justice • Legislation/Legal Issues • Military • Minority Issues • Personnel Issues • Police Conduct • Police Procedure • Policing Strategies • Safety and Security • Specialized Law Enforcement Agencies • Tactics • Terrorism • Victims/Witnesses Editors Marie Simonetti Rosen Dorothy Moses Schulz M. cuny public safety training academy: Police Performance Appraisals Serdar Kenan Gul, Paul O'Connell, 2012-09-24 Police performance appraisal is one of the most important components of law enforcement management—affecting the quality of the services a department delivers as well as the satisfaction of its employees. Therefore, it is crucial that the performance appraisal process is conducted in an effective and equitable manner. Police Performance Appraisals: A Comparative Perspective employs the comparative case study approach to evaluate systems in police departments in two diverse locales—Ankara, Turkey and Toledo, Ohio. The study seeks to determine whether there are any common trends or obvious similarities that transcend national and cultural boundaries. From this information, best practices can be identified to improve the system of any police organization. The data from the survey raises a host of issues essential to police management. Are traditional or modern appraisal systems more preferable to police personnel? Are field and command officers' perceptions of the performance evaluation instruments in their departments similar or do they differ from those of their subordinates? Asking these and other critical questions, the authors also examine the relationship between the officer's perception of the appraisal system and his or her rank, taking into account level of education, gender, age, and years of service. Employing both qualitative and quantitative methodologies, this study yields important findings and valuable insights for police organizations as to which characteristics an appraisal process should have for the best quality system. Lessons learned from this study should provide guidance to future efforts to design better appraisal systems and may also contribute to heightened focus on nationwide assessments of evaluation practices and standards for police organizations.
