This program is designed for beginners or athletes just starting their performance enhancement journey. Pricing can vary based on location, package duration, and the specific services included. On average, the rookie cost ranges from $100 to $200 per session, with options for bulk session purchases that reduce the per-session price. It is important to note that D1 Training emphasizes personalized coaching, which justifies the cost through quality and expertise.

Pricing Structure Overview

D1 Training typically offers several tiers of training packages, with the rookie package being the most accessible. The pricing structure is often tiered as follows:

- Single session fee – pay-as-you-go for individual workouts.
- Multi-session packages – discounted rates for purchasing multiple sessions upfront.

Core Components of the Rookie Training

Included elements in the rookie package often consist of:

- Initial Movement and Fitness Assessment to evaluate current athletic ability.
- Sport-specific drills tailored to enhance coordination, speed, and strength.

Session Frequency and Package Length

Clients who commit to more frequent sessions or longer package durations usually benefit from reduced rates per session. For example, purchasing a 10-session package may offer a 10-20% savings compared to single sessions.
