women s health nurse practitioner conferences 2024: Women's Health and Corporate Marketing Mary Hunter, 2024-08-26 This compelling collection of essays examines how historically significant marketing schemes have profoundly impacted women's health and healthcare across the world. Written by scholars and activists from a range of disciplines, including law, sociology, and the health sciences, the book spotlights a range of products that have had a damaging impact on women's health, laying bare the values and assumptions engrained within the marketing campaigns that promoted them. Examples include the advertisement of household and personal care products that expose users to toxic chemicals, empowerment messaging to persuade women to use tobacco products in low- and middle-income countries, and the deceptive marketing of benzodiazepines and opioids that disproportionately impacts women and their families. A powerful critique of the unethical and paternalistic approach of some corporations, this book will find readers among students taking courses in Public Health, Allied Health, Gender Studies, Sociology, and beyond, as well as interested professionals and lay readers.

women s health nurse practitioner conferences 2024: Exploring Women's Experiences in Higher Education Jo Divers, Sam Chenery-Morris, 2025-11-03 This book considers the structure and demographics of the workforce in nursing and midwifery higher education, observing the gender divide, highlighting the impact of intersectionality, and exploring the challenges and opportunities this provides. Divers and Chenery-Morris look at the power of clinical practice, the perception of nursing and midwifery as 'women's work,' perceptions of meaning around being female, social mobility, race, sexuality, the 'caring role,' academic identities and the role of men. To investigate these issues, they introduce intersectional case studies of the lived experiences of women working in higher education and make connections to the wider international literature, in particular sociological, feminist and gender theories. The chapters are linked to larger questions that encompass the purpose of universities more generally, including social mobility, generating new knowledge, challenging irrelevant practices or those rooted in colonisation, and reflexivity culminating in visions of the future for the professions. Showcasing a range of experiences and voices from nursing and midwifery academics, this is an important contribution to discussions of gender in higher education and in the caring professions. It will interest advanced students and researchers from nursing, midwifery, education, sociology, and gender studies.

These alternate teaching-learning strategies appeal to students who want to engage in the learning process, rather than listen to lectures. These strategies incorporate the sciences, arts and humanities to provide a more holistic approach to learning and to facilitate the students' understanding of the broad scope of nursing. They are applicable for the beginning nursing student and the student nearing graduation and licensure. Integrating these strategies into the curricula not only enhances student learning and improves programmatic outcomes, but can also improve student satisfaction with courses and instructors.
